ANNOUNCES RESIDENTIAL PROGRAMME ON
“Digital Transformation through eGovernance”
From December 17-21, 2018 at Goa

INTRODUCTION

Governments around the world are going through a digital transformation, although they are in various stages of implementation. e-Governance assumes greater importance in the context of inclusive growth and has transformed globally, owing to the changes taking place in technological, socio-political and economic fronts. An initiative driving this growth is the Digital India. The Digital India programme is a flagship programme of the Government of India with a vision to transform India into a digitally empowered society and knowledge economy. In line with the Digital India programme, e-Governance contributes to the key vision area of "Digital Empowerment of citizens" through "Transforming e-Governance for Transforming Governance". In this regard, some of the innovative public service institutions are embracing the digital transformation to improve efficiency and productivity, reducing operational costs, and boosting creativity and innovation and improving the overall user experience and access.

However, the application of e-Governance in India is a challenging and enormous task. But the potential opportunity is large; benefits are varied and can be quite significant. Successful implementation of e-Governance requires ability and willingness to reengineer the working of Government departments and the skills of managing large scale transformation in addition to the ever evolving technological changes.

Keeping in view the need for an effective understanding and sharing experience for the purpose of government transformation, the National Productivity Council has designed this programme to provide a platform to learn, share and deliberate on concepts and experiences.
